Is Kentucky a Debtor?

The United States has carried a claim against the state of Kentucky for $1,433,767.39 since 1836. Kentucky citizens, gentlemen, and Colonels take great pride in their ability to pay whatever they owe, but the state absolutely ignores Uncle Sam in this claim. It appears that large sums were deposited by the United States with various states in 1836, at a time when the United Treasury had more money than it knew what to do with, and under the agreement the money was to be returned by the states when the United States Treasury needed it. The process is much the same as that of distributing deposits among banks, except that Kentucky and other states fail to understand how a debt so old should be counted, or paid.

Another Chautauqua Victim.

Chautauqua "gets" the best of them, and now Vice President Marshall has followed the example of the illustrious William Jennings Bryan, Champ Clark, Captain Hobbs and others, and has signed a contract to deliver from thirty to forty-five lectures in Missouri, Iowa and Kansas next summer. A good deal of sympathy has been bestowed upon the Vice President because of the fact that he is compelled to live on his salary, and this restricts him to a palatial suite of rooms and board in one of the most aristocratic hotels in the United States, where the charges are so high that he undoubtedly has to take up the Chautauqua to "piece out" expenses.

Postal Banks Not a Success.

It will be remembered that a few years ago the banking interests of the country were in feverish excitement over the proposed postal savings banks. Now that this system is in operation, it is found that it has not been a success and has lost practically one million dollars to the government since it was installed. The principal reasons assigned are ascribed to the limit of $500 which any individual may deposit. The Postoffice Department is getting all the small change while the larger amounts still go to the private banks.

Startling Revenue Facts.

One of the new inventions that came along just ahead of the automobile and the moving picture and a few other common necessities of the time, was the cigarette. From government statistics it appears that over fourteen million cigarettes were consumed in the United States during the last fiscal year. By the same figures it appears that the use of whiskey in the United States has doubled in the last fifteen years. The revenue tax on cigarettes is considerably over a million dollars a year.

Government Control of Highways.

Representative Moss of West Virginia has a bill before Congress providing that all highways throughout the United States that are now used in transporting rural mail be declared post roads, and placed under federal authority. His suggestion embraces a Bureau of Public Post Roads, to be maintained from Washington.

Prohibiting Convict Labor.

A step toward shutting out convict labor is contained in a bill by Representative Buchanan of Illinois, prohibiting the importation of goods in such foreign convict labor was employed.

An Indian in Statuary Hall.

The contribution of the State of Oklahoma to the Hall of Fame in the National Capitol will be a life size statue of Sequoyah, said to be the son of a Hessian soldier and his Cherokee wife, who served under General Braddock and rendered distinguished service, afterward living in what is now the State of Oklahoma. Sequoyah was the inventor of the Indian alphabet which is used to this day in the west. He remains rest in a cave on the Pacific coast. Mrs. Virginia Reanoxie has received her commission to perform the task. There are a great many unusual statues in Statuary Hall, among which is that of Susan B. Anthony, which was placed there by the State of New York. Wisconsin contributed the statue of Father Pere Marquette who explored the Green Bay and Lake Superior regions in the sixteenth century. As a rule the states have selected their great statesmen for the two cases allotted to each of the states in the Hall of Fame.

FISH AND GAME LAWS

Rolling Relating To Ice Fishing On The Various Maine Ponds.

The Commissioners of Inland Fisheries and Game have been asked to give their interpretation of the ice fishing laws, particularly as to the taking of pickerel, as passed by the last Legislature. Their ruling is as follows:

"As we construe the laws pickerel may be legally taken through the ice at any time in waters open to ice fishing, but they must be taken in accordance with the general law, i. e., in the day time and with not more than five set lines to a family.

In addition to this privilege, during February and March, citizens of this State may take land-locked salmon, trout, togue, white perch and black bass, as well as other fish, in waters open to ice fishing, in the day time and with not more than five set lines to a family. The following is a list of the waters in this State in which ice fishing is permitted under the provisions of the general law above explained.

TRAGEDY AT WEST PARIS

Fin Woman Shoots Husband Then Self.

A shocking tragedy occurred at Snow's Falls, two miles from West Paris, Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

Hilda Kokkonen aged 28 shot her husband, Otto Kokkonen, in the abdomen, inflicting a wound from which he died Sunday morning at 2 A. M. Kokkonen was 31 years of age. After shooting her husband she turned the revolver upon herself, shooting in the abdomen as she had shot her husband. Mrs. Kokkonen was taken to the C. M. G. Hospital, Lewiston on the 5.15 morning train, where she is reported as having a fair chance of recovery.

Mrs. Kokkonen is supposed to have been partially deranged and it appears that for several months she had carried a concealed 32 calibre revolver with which she purposed to do the deed. She also had a bottle of carbolic acid hidden among her effects which she doubtless expected to drink in case the shot from the revolver failed in deadly purpose.

The Kokkonens came from Finland as have about two hundred Finn families many who are living on abandoned farms, others who have purchased good farms in Paris, Greenwood and Woodstock and other adjoining towns.

Kokkonen is said to have been a good fellow, working well, for men who employed him on their farms. Early in the fall he went into the woods, coming home to spend the Christmas vacation with his wife and one-year-old daughter, whose birthday occurred on the day of the shooting.

The family had a room in the home of a family by the name of Pulkkinen. Mrs. Kokkonen was subject to jealous morose moods which her husband tried hard to control in the best possible way. On Christmas she walked to West Paris, carrying the child in her arms the two mile distance, going to the Finnish pastor, Chas. Julien, of the Congregational Mission Church, she remained there until her husband came for her the next day.

At the time of the shooting she was sitting beside him on the bed combing his hair. Dr. F. E. Wheeler was called at once, and Dr. F. H. Packard, Sheriff W. G. Frothingham of South Paris and Rev. Chas. Julien accompanied her to the hospital.

It is reported that the little child will be taken to Finland and given in charge of her father's family. (Correspondent W. J. Wheeler of South Paris was called and a jury was impaneled as follows: C. H. Lane, Jr., C. F. Hardin, D. H. Fife, E. D. Curtis, R. E. Shaw, A. C. Perham who attended the autopsy and viewed the remains while Dr. Stewart of South Paris and Dr. Bartlett of Norway probed for the bullet which was found back of the left kidney. The remains of young Kokkonen were buried Tuesday morning.

THE HOUSE PARTY AT THE UPTON'S.

It began Monday noon and ended Tuesday evening.

Only three of us arrived this time, Charles Tuell, Carroll Valentine, and Mr. Curtis. Harold Rich, Winfield Wright and Harold Chandler were detained from going for various reasons. We are sorry for their missed delightful time.

With winter sports, games and story telling, with fun and frolic and feasting (such delicious cooking, we cream every meal to make up for the absent ones) the time passed all too quickly. But what is the use? No one can describe a party at the Uptons. One must be there himself and taste the flavor, breathe the atmosphere of peace and good will and rest his soul. It is simply unique. Long may the invitations continue to be sent out.

"In all the lakes, ponds and rivers in Arrostook county: in all the lakes, ponds and rivers in Sagadahoc county; in all the lakes, ponds and rivers in Waldo county; in all the lakes, ponds and rivers in Washington county.

"In all the lakes, ponds and rivers in York county, except Bonney Bog, Messabesee, Littlefield, Square, Middle Branch, Monson, Long and York ponds.

MAINE AUTOMOBILE ASSOCIATION

Report of Secretary For Year Ending Dec. 1, 1913.

The past year has been a very successful one. On December 1, 1913 our membership was 1552; on Dec. 1, 1912, it was 1278, showing an increase for the year of 274. Since Dec. 1, there have been added 71, making the membership today 2749. When our membership is compared with the number of cars registered in the State, our Association leads all other automobile associations of the Nation. In fact, we are so far in advance of our nearest competitors that we cannot even hear the "honk" of their horns.

Agent Employed Constantly.

To accomplish this it has required constant, intelligent and unremitting work on the part of your officers. Following the action of last year, an agent has been constantly kept doing field work. While this is expensive, it is the only means by which our membership can be increased or even maintained. By this means, not only the automobilists but the people of the State are kept in closer touch with the work of the Association in its propaganda for good roads, than could otherwise be done. By this means your officers are also brought into close touch with the prevailing sentiment of the people in the State.

Field Day.

With scattered membership like ours, there should be some means provided whereby many of the members could be brought together at least one day in the year, and I would suggest that some time next June a general field day be arranged with some attractions which will be of interest to the automobilists throughout the State.

Insurance.

Our field agent reports that very many of the most influential automobilists of the State have suggested that the Association take up some kind of work that will be of direct material advantage to the members; and some have gone so far as to say that they believe that this can best take the form of a mutual automobile insurance. This certainly is worthy of serious consideration.

Influence on Road Conditions.

During the past year either on the suggestion or complaint of members, the Secretary has taken up road conditions especially dangerous sections of roads with the municipal officers of some 75 towns, and I am happy to state that in most instances the towns have accepted the suggestions of the Secretary and the dangerous sections complained of have been immediately remedied.

Laws Enacted Through Influence of Association.

It is perhaps needless to state that this Association, as far as highway improvement is concerned, is the most potent civic body in the State and its work has been of almost incalculable value. During the session of the last Legislature, many wise laws aside from the general highway law, were enacted through the influence of the Association or its officers. Notable among these is the one authorizing the employment of county prisoners on the highways under this act, which is known as Chapter 20 of the Laws of 1913, the county commissioners are authorized to put able bodied male prisoners to work on building and repairing highways within their limits. It also provides that the county commissioners can buy such tools and machinery and employ such other help as shall be necessary, no limitation being placed on the amount that the county commissioners shall expend for these services.

It also provides that the State Highway Department or the municipal officers of towns may make application for the services of such prisoners and that the work be done under their jurisdiction. It furthermore provides that when county commissioners refuse to employ prisoners, that if a petition signed by three per cent. of the voters of any county as determined by the number of votes cast for Governor at the last preceding election, is presented to the county commissioners, they shall be compelled to work the prisoners on the roads. I would suggest that the automobilists in the several counties request the county commissioners to so employ the prisoners and if they do not, that petitions be circulated compelling them to do so. Any one at all familiar with the construction

FIREMEN'S BALL.

The Volunteer Fire Company of Bethel are working hard to make their annual ball on Thursday, Jan. 1st, a grand success.

Arthur N. Petteogill's Orchestra of Lewiston gave excellent satisfaction at the Paper Makers Ball in Berlin recently, and they come highly recommended.

There are a few seats reserved in the gallery besides the general admission, for those who cannot dance, but it is hoped that all will come and help make this dance the event of the season.

Refreshments will be sold during the evening by the Company.

CHRISTMAS GIFT TO GOULD'S ACADEMY.

On Christmas morning Principal Hanson received from Joseph S. Rich of New York the following list of valuable books for the Academy Library:

The Educational Ideal, Monroe

Teaching a District School, Dismore

Common Sense Didactics, Sablin

Our Schools and Their Administrations, Chancelor

The School and Its Life, Gilbert

The Basis of Practical Teaching, Bryan

Jean Mitchell's School, Wray

Thanks of the school and community go out to Mr. Rich in appreciation for this latest gift.

That whatsoever you set your hand to will prosper—that the coming year will prove up to your most cherished hopes—that you and all who abide under your roof may be abundantly blessed with Health and Happiness throughout its many days; is our wish for you for the year.

Home-Making and Home-Makers.

To the true man or woman there can be nothing more agreeable on earth than the business of home-making; and all who are not home-makers miss the best part of their mission in life. Whoever makes a home, in the best sense of the word, is a real benefactor to the world, for every true home is the abode of joy, peace, happiness and security to those that share in it, and exerts an influence that is incalculable for the amelioration of the whole human family. Many a prodigal has been led by the thought of home, and the makers of his own particular home, to repent of his sins and to change his course in life; and many an unfortunate one has been saved in the evil hour from suicide, or worse, by the tender recollections of a home, a fond mother's prayers, an indulgent father's counsels, or a sister's or brother's tenderness.

Yes, whoever helps to make a true home confers a benefit on mankind that no man can fully estimate. Indeed, the influence of the true home for good is absolutely incalculable, and reaches many, even that never enter its inner circle. Simply to get a glimpse of it is to receive an impulse toward better things, to obtain a more exalted view of life, and to feel an access to faith in God and the immortality of the human soul. It is like a vision of the glories of the New Jerusalem and the everlasting habitations, and no one can be wholly bad who has seen such things.

Every-Day Sense.

Do you keep your windows and doors closed—especially at night? Then you are a criminal against yourself and others. When you close the house fondly hoping to eliminate work, keeping out the dust, you create germs and germs for germs to dwell in. Sunlight in showers should be admitted to the house, especially in the morning. If necessary keep one part closed while you are giving the sun a chance to be a natural sterilizer in another. The family should sleep out of doors whenever possible and if not, leave every window open to let that pure air circulate through. To believe such a thing as the "harmfulness of night air" is to say that you believe in such nonsense as "if you sing before breakfast you will cry before a light." The humidity of night air does little harm from day air. It is cooler and better to breathe, for with traffic, dust is not so likely to be flying. People who sleep out of doors rarely have colds, and those delicate in health are often made well by living out of doors. Pure air and out-of-door living have never been known to be other than beneficial.

Everybody who is able should buy a vacuum cleaner. Every family should afford a carpet sweeper. Every family possesses a broom. The broom properly used is not dangerous, set in the hands of an indifferent housewife it becomes a deadly weapon. Many germs, especially the tubercular, are incapable of independent action. They are lighter than air and motion of the air sets them moving.

The woman who sweeps and raises clouds of dust raises as well an army of invisible foes. These she takes in to her lungs with every breath in the same manner as dirt is sucked into the vacuum cleaner from the floor. A dampened broom is the best kind of a broom. There should be a mop to wipe the rugs after sweeping, also the floors. This or a dampened cloth takes up the dust without harm to the worker.

Throw away the feather duster. It is an abomination in this day of civilization. It takes the dust off the chair, flaps it into the air, then it settles again on the chair or on some other bit of furniture. Even if you do not believe in the danger, practise these theories, for cleanliness alone. No housewife should object to being neat or clean.—Exchange.

GROVER HILL.

January, bleak and drear,
First arrival of the year,
Named for Janus—Janus who,
Fable says, has faces two.
Pray, is that the reason why
Yours is such a fickle sky?
First you smile, and to us bring
Dreams of the returning spring,
Then, without a sign, you frown,
And the snowflakes hurry down,
Making all the landscape white.
Just as if it blushed with fright.
You obey no word or law;
Now you freeze and then you thaw.
Tearing all the brooks that run
With the hope of constant sun,
Chaining all their feet at last
Firm in icy fetters fast.
Month of all months most contrary,
Sweet and bitter January.

EFFECT OF OATS ON FLAVOR OF MILK.

It has been asserted by some dairymen that the feeding of crushed oats to cows will improve the flavor of milk. To ascertain the correctness of this theory a series of experiments was made by the Bureau of Animal Industry of the United States Department of Agriculture at the experimental dairy farm at Beltsville, Md. Six cows were used in the experiment; three cows fed a grain ration of corn meal, bran, and cottonseed meal; the other three were fed a grain mixture of five parts crushed oats and one part cottonseed meal. A number of samples of milk from the cows fed these rations were submitted to various persons in the dairy division and they were asked to indicate their preference. In all 50 opinions were passed on various samples. Of these, 16 showed a preference for the milk from cows fed on crushed oats, 27 preferred that from the bran and corn ration, while 0 expressed no choice. The results show that in these rations, not only was there no marked difference in favor of the crushed oats as a feed to improve flavor, but, if anything, the re-son containing bran and corn was more successful in producing a fine-flavored milk.

DISCOVERY COMES AFTER 3000 YEARS

Buffalo House Takes the Taste Out of Castor Oil.

Since the earliest days of medicine chemists have been trying to take the taste out of castor oil.

The secret has at last been discovered by Spencer Kellogg & Sons of Buffalo, who are among the largest producers and refiners of vegetable oils in the world. They have removed the castor oil taste, and smell, too, purifying the oil and making it better and more effective. Nothing is added to it, nothing good taken out of it.

Kellogg's Tasteless Castor Oil is Tasteless in the true sense. Even children take it easily, for all the nauseating effect is removed.

Sold now at all drug stores in 25c and 50c sizes. Ask for Kellogg's Tasteless Castor Oil by name, for there are several preparations of castor oil, mixed and flavored, which are not tasteless and do not act as well.

The public is protected by the trademark, a green castor leaf, bearing the signature, Kellogg's.

Made only by Spencer Kellogg & Sons, Inc., Buffalo, N. Y., refiners of vegetable oils.

tion of highways knows that the two million bond issue will build but a small part of the main roads in this State. Here is a grand opportunity to augment the bond issue. The employment of products on highways is being generally adopted by the different states and wherever it has been adopted and intelligently done, it has met with marked success not only from the economic standpoint but the beautification as well.

Road Commissioners.
The election of several road commissioners in a town by the people has been very unsatisfactory. A law was enacted authorizing the selection to appoint road commissioners instead of their being elected by the people. This law authorizes the selection to appoint a road commissioner for three years if they so desire.

Cutting of Trees.
Another law was enacted authorizing the State Highway Commission to cut trees on any public highway either within limits of the highway or on private property where such trees obstruct the view at railroad crossings or dangerous curves.

Placing Turf in the Road.
Another law enacted was one depriving of its state aid any town that places turf on the road unless such turf was cut up fine or covered up.

Advertising Signs.
Another law was enacted prohibiting the erection of advertising signs with in 500 feet of street corners or where one road intersects another.

Cultivation of Land.
The cultivation of land which in some counties has grown to be a general practice, within the limits of a highway, thereby filling in the ditches and turning the water into the road, was prohibited, and on complaint he may write to any municipal officer, it shall be his duty to see that this law is enforced.

The Legislature also limited the weight of carts to be taken loaded to rural roads.

Commission for Uniformity of Automobile Laws.
The Legislature also created a law commission to investigate a commission of three to confer with like commissions from other states to prepare and recommend a uniform laws which should be uniform in the several eastern states.

A bill providing for the creation of a road commission was presented but was defeated after a protracted session.

There are only a few things that have been accomplished in one day of session.
